My day begins at six thirty when my alarm clock rings. I usually get up at once, make myself a strong cup of black tea and drink it while reading the morning newspaper.  After brushing my teeth and combing my hair I go to work. It takes me about thirty minutes by underground.

I start work at eight thirty, half an hour before any customers arrive.  It's the biggest bookstore in town and I love working there. We also have a section for second-hand books, one for antique books and one for contemporary books. I'm in charge of<sup>1</sup> the second-hand section. People come in and give us the books they want to sell and it's my job to put them on display and sell them. Second-hand books are usually cheaper than new ones and so there are always customers who want to save money by buying used editions.  Just last week one of my customers was looking for a book that no other bookstore he went to had in stock<sup>2</sup> and to his surprise I had it on display. He had been looking for it for a long time and was very happy that he finally found it.

The shop closes at six but I don't often leave before six thirty. There's a lot of work to do at the end of the day.  On my way home I usually buy some groceries. At home I prepare dinner for me and my two children. They do their homework before dinner and after dinner we usually watch an episode of our favourite TV-series.  Most days except at the weekend I'm in bed and asleep by ten.

Hi Paul,

I've just seen an ad about this year's summer camp. The sports that are offered are awesome. I'd like to take up Lacrosse – something I've always wanted to try - but only if you join as well. It's in July or August and practice is in the afternoons or mornings. What do you think? I'm not free in July because I'll be on holiday with my parents but August would be perfect. I just have to help my father in his shop till lunch in August. I'll fill in the online form so that they know we are interested.

Yours,

Timmy

Hi mom and dad,

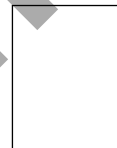

I'm having a great holiday here in Ireland. I'm staying in a hotel in the centre of Dublin. It's got an outdoor swimming pool on the top floor but it rains all the time so we can't use it. That's a real shame.

The people are friendly and very helpful especially when I have trouble understanding certain words. They then explain everything very carefully. The classes I take in the mornings have helped me with the language, too. We've got the coolest teacher in the world!

Last week we went to the Cliffs of Moher which was really fascinating. I got a bit scared standing so close to the edge of the cliffs.

Except for the rain the weather is okay. It's not too cold and I've got this wonderful raincoat you told me to take along. ;)

Love, Mialong

Find the perfect holiday program for every boy

Timothy is interested in nature. With some of his friends he has already organised some protest marches to save the rainforest. For two years he has done volunteer<sup>1</sup> work in an animal shelter at the weekends. He thinks that if you treat animals well, you can't be a bad person.

Kenny is a good sportsman. He has already won several swimming competitions and just loves being in the water. He also loves science at school because in this subject you learn about the importance of a healthy natural environment for mankind.

Charly loves getting to know people from all over the world. He thinks that communication is the key to a peaceful world.

Martin is a team player and loves learning new skills with likeminded<sup>2</sup> teenagers. He also loves exploring<sup>3</sup> new areas and being on the water.
